350. (3) In this sentence, "Neither... nor" is a correlative conjunction used to join two subjects, Smith and Rose. When the subjects joined by "Neither... nor" are singular (as in this case), the verb must also be singular to maintain subject-verb agreement. Therefore, the plural verb "were" should be replaced with the singular verb "was."

351. (4) The error lies in the incorrect usage of the past perfect continuous tense ("had been repairing"). The phrase "several days now" implies that the action is still ongoing, which requires the present perfect continuous tense ("have been repairing") rather than the past perfect continuous tense.

352. (1) The phrase "is disposed of" is incorrect in this context because "disposed of" means "to get rid of something," which does not fit the meaning of the sentence. Instead, the correct phrase is "My secretary is disposed to". The term "disposed to" means "inclined or willing to do something," which aligns with the intended meaning of the sentence.

353. (4) The phrasal verb "hand down" means "to pass something on to the next generation" or "to give something as a legacy or inheritance." It is used in contexts where items like traditions, clothes, or possessions are given to younger people.

In this sentence, the context refers to payment slips, which do not fit the meaning of "hand down." The correct phrasal verb should be "hand over", which means "to give something to someone, especially when it is required or requested."

354. (4) "Lately" means "recently" and is used to refer to a period of time up to the present. The correct word should be "late," which means "after the expected or usual time." Therefore, "unpardonably late in the morning" will be the right usage.

355. (3) The correct expression is "how to play the piano" because "piano" is a specific music musical instrument, and we generally use "the" with musical instruments, when referring to something

356. (4) The correct phrase should be "speaking to him about" rather than "speaking to him on".

• "Speaking to someone about something" is the correct structure to convey the meaning.

• "To him on" is not idiomatic or grammatically correct.

357. (3) The word "confident" is an adjective which is used to modify a noun or pronoun while "confidently" is an adverb which is used to modify a verb. Therefore, the adverb "confidently" will be used to modify the verb "riding" instead of adjective "confident."

358. (4) After "determined to," the base form of the verb (infinitive without "to") should be used, so "completed" should be replaced with "complete." The correct phrase is "determined to complete."

359. (2) Set away/off = leave; go away from

Set aside (Phrasal Verb) = declare a legal decision to be invalid; over-rule; overturn.

Hence, The Supreme Court set aside.....will be used here.

COMMON ERRORS

64. (2) Bring (Verb) = to carry, convey or take something; to cause to happen.
Bring ⇒ brought (V₂/V₃).
65. (3) Insouciance (Noun) = casual, lack of concern; indifference; unconcern; calmness.
Other correct words are :
Surrealism (Noun) = a movement in visual art and literature.
Bucolic (Adjective) = relating to the countryside; pastoral; rustic.
Exhibition (Noun) = an organized presentation and display of a selection of items.
66. (4) In this sentence, the subject "We" is plural, so the verb should be in its base form "watch" instead of "watches". The verb "watches" is the third-person singular present tense form, which is only used with singular subjects like he, she, it.
Thus, the correct sentence should be :
"We watch movies every Friday night."
67. (1) "sillier" should not be paired with "irrelevant" as it's not a comparison of degree. Therefore, the word "silly" (positive degree) is the correct form to use in this context.
Hence, the correct alternative is "silly."
68. (4) The sentence that has a grammatical error is: We came in the meeting room quietly.
The correct preposition to use in this context is "into" instead of "in." The correct sentence should be: "We came into the meeting room quietly." The preposition "into" indicates movement from one place to another, which is appropriate here.
69. (1) "The responsibility was given to each student to keep quiet during the seminar." is grammatically correct sentence. "Was given" is the correct past tense passive form of the verb "give." The phrase "to keep quiet" is appropriate as it implies maintaining silence, which is the intended meaning.
• Option 2 and 3 incorrectly use "quieter," which is a comparative adjective, unsuitable in this context.
• Option 4 has a grammatical error in "was give," as it should be "was given."
70. (2) The grammatically correct sentence is: The carpenter kept furniture in the backyard of his house.
Sentence 1: Incorrect because "a backyard" implies there might be more than one backyard, but typically a house has a single backyard. Also, "the" is preferred here for specificity.
• Sentence 2: Correct because "furniture" is an uncountable noun, and the definite article "the" is appropriately used with "backyard" to specify the backyard of his house.
• Sentence 3: Incorrect because "a furniture" is grammatically wrong; "furniture" cannot take the indefinite article "a" as it is uncountable.
• Sentence 4: Incorrect because "in backyard" lacks the article "the," which is necessary to specify "the backyard."
71. (3) My idea can be a key idea for cracking difficult conflicts of an extremely high level.

Which is used for saying exactly what thing or things you are talking about.
401. (2) The given sentence is in present perfect continuous tense and we use 'have + been + V₁' in present perfect continuous tense. Hence, 'have been getting' will be the right usage.
402. (1) 'fare is going' will be used in place of 'fare is go' because auxiliary verbs 'is/am/are' are followed by present participle form of a main verb (V₁).
403. (1) 'Figure out' will be used in place of 'figured out' because modal verbs are directly followed by base form (V₁) of main verb.
404. (2) 'He's' is the contracted form of 'He is' and auxiliary verb 'is/are/am' are followed by present participle form (V₁) of a main verb. Hence, taking a course will be used in place of take a course.
405. (2) Mildly is an adverb, but in this context, we need an adjective to modify the noun 'animal'. Peace-loving is also an adjective and the conjunction - 'and' joins two equal ranking words. Hence, 'a mild and' will be the right usage.
406. (2) No improvement required.
Run into = to meet someone unexpectedly.
• He ran into Kamesh in the corridor a few minutes later.
407. (1) No improvement
Come over = to come to a place.

TYPE-II

1. (1) Anybody is a singular subject. Hence, singular verb i.e. has will be used.
Explore (V.) = to travel around a place in order to learn about it; to search.
Here, anybody has explored this part is the right usage.
Look at the sentence :
They went on an expedition to explore the flora and fauna of Hornchurch Wood.
2. (4) Here, passive voice i.e. is not yet known..... should be used. Subject is passive.
3. (3) Look at the structure :
Subject + has/have + Noun
Subject + has/have + V₃
Have/own/belong are stative verbs.
Here, has a meeting will be used.
4. (2) No substitution required
5. (3) Infinitive = to + V₁
Hence, wants to win..... will be used.
6. (4) should leave
Use of be is superfluous.
7. (3) as rich as he
as + Pos. Deg. + as is the right usage.
8. (2) the latter is more later (Adjective/Adverb) : at a time in the future.
latter (Adjective) : denoting the second of two people/things.
Comp. Deg. is used for two.
the most will be replaced by more.
9. (3) will have made
Structure in Future Per. Tense :
will + have + V₃
10. (4) in doing what he thought persist + in + Gerund is the right usage.
11. (1) We have pleasure
have the pleasure is the right phrase.
have the pleasure is used to express gratitude.
12. (3) from doing what I want prevent (Verb) is followed by from (Prep.) + Ving (Gerund)
13. (3) to the specifications given by conform (V.) is followed by to (Prep.)
4. (3) recognised by its Structure :
can be + V₃
from will be replaced by by.
- (3) have had a terrible cold
Here, Pr. Per. T. - have + V₃ will be used.
For is used in sentences with Per. T.
For will replace during.

16. (4) than he went

No sooner - than is correct pair of Correlatives.
Structure :
No sooner + was + Sub. + V₂ + than + Sub. + V₂ +

17. (4) at the ignorance of astonished (Adjective) is followed by at (Prep.)

18. (1) is caught in
When a sentence has more than one Sub. and they are joined with as well as, the V. agrees with the Main Sub.
by will be replaced by in.

19. (4) and have received
Structure :
have + been + V₃..... have + V₃

20. (1) Adverb 'just' is used to express a recent activity but past perfect refers to a time earlier than before now. Hence, 'had already' is the correct usage.

21. (4) The sentence is an assertive of past indefinite tense where the subject is 'I'. Hence, the question tag must be 'didn't I?'

22. (2) Look for = attempt to find someone or something.

Look about = to try to locate someone or something.
Look at the sentence :
City planners are looking for ways to ease traffic.

23. (4) Conjunction 'than' is used in comparisons while 'then' indicates time. Hence, 'than ever' will be used in place of 'then ever'.

24. (3) Here, 'during his stay' is the correct phrase in place of 'amid his staying' because 'during' means throughout the course or duration of (a period of time). Stay means a period of staying somewhere.

25. (1) Here, 'From now on' must be used in place of 'For now on' because the phrase 'from now on' means from this moment and forever into the future.

Look at the sentence :

I promise, from now on, I'll always tell you the truth.

26. (1) Use 'have you been' in place of 'have you' because the sentence reflects a passive voice formation and 'has/have + been + V₃' is the correct verb form in the sentence of present perfect tense.

27. (3) Look at the structure of Type 1 conditional sentence :

If clause	Main clause
If + present Indefinite	Future Indefinite
If it rains,	we will stay at home.

Hence, 'will happen' will be used in place of 'happened'.

28. (2) We cannot use two negative terms for a single subject. Use of 'not' with 'none makes it superfluous. Hence, only option (2) 'could survive' appropriate fits in the sentence.

29. (2) The sentence is a passive voice and past participle of an action verb is used after the auxiliary verb in it.

Hence, option (2) 'was given' is the correct verb form to be used in place of 'had gave' in the sentence.

30. (3) No substitution required

31. (3) When we talk something in general, we use simple present tense. Hence, 'needs to be careful' should be used in place of 'needing to be careful'.

• Furniture for young children needs to be indestructible.

32. (3) For a place 'where' is used as the relative pronoun. Thus, replace 'there' by 'where' to make the sentence correct because the antecedent is a place: town.

• The village where he lives is far from town.

33. (1) The sentence and the question tag must be in the same tense and the pronoun is used according to the subject (noun/pronoun). Hence, 'didn't he' should be used in place of 'hadn't he' here because the main sentence is in past indefinite tense.

34. (1) Use 'in addition to the problem of' in place of 'adding to the problem of' here because the phrase 'in addition to' means along or in conjunction with someone else; besides.

• In addition to the other responsibilities of job, you will need to stay late whenever the senior staff has to.

35. (4) Replace 'because' by 'so that' because "so that" gives the implication of some sort of intention or hope, while "because" merely gives the reason.

• We do what we have to do so that we can do what we want to do.

36. (3) When we talk about amounts and quantities we usually use singular determiners, verbs and pronouns, even if the noun is plural. Thus, 'is a' should be used in place of 'are a' here.

• Hundred rupees is not a high price to pay for a pizza.

37. (1) No substitution

38. (4) 'More' is used in comparison but there is no comparison is being made. Thus, the most important should be used in place of 'the more important'. Definite article 'the' is used with a superlative degree adjective.

39. (1) If the main clause is positive, the question tag is usually negative, and if the main clause is negative, the question tag is positive. The sentence and the question tag must be in the same tense. Hence, 'can he?' will be the correct question tag here.

40. (2) If the main clause is positive, the question tag is usually negative, and if the main clause is negative, the question tag is positive. The sentence and the question tag must be in the same tense. Hence, 'didn't she?' will be the correct question tag of the given sentence.

41. (2) Replace 'lose control as soon as' by 'lost control when' because the sentence is explaining the past action and 'when' is used to refer at or on which time or circumstance something happened. The conjunction 'as soon as' is used to say that something will happen immediately after something else has happened.

42. (4) Here, 'has been doing quite well' should be used in place of 'is done quite better' because the action started in past but still is in progress (perfect continuous tense). Other options do not fit in the sentence.

43. (3) The sentence must be in active voice because the doer of the action is important than the action. Hence, 'took' is the appropriate verb to be used in place of 'was took'.

44. (4) No substitution required

45. (2) The past indefinite tense is used when the time of the past action is mentioned. Hence, 'all that happened' will be the correct usage in place of 'all which happen'.

46. (1) We use 'is/am/are + V3' in the passive voice of present indefinite tense but the sentence is not a passive voice. Thus, 'have decided' will be the correct verb form to be used here.

47. (3) Here, 'subject to attack' is more appropriate to be used in place of 'likely to attack' because 'subject' means likely or prone to be affected by (a particular condition or occurrence, typically an unwelcome or unpleasant one).

48. (4) 'anything with chemicals' will be used in place of 'nothing with chemicals' because anything is used in the sense of 'any kind of thing' to indicate presence in negative sentence while nothing is used in the sense of 'not a single thing' to indicate absence in affirmative sentence.

• She didn't tell me anything about her family.

• They said nothing about her family.

49. (4) Use 'to bring' in place of 'to be bring' because the sentence is an active voice while 'to be + V3' is the construction of the passive of infinitive.

50. (4) Little is used with uncountable nouns but few with countable nouns. Hence, 'very few people' should be used in place of 'very little people'.

51. (3) After preposition 'to' is followed by the base form of the verb (infinitive form of verb). Thus, 'to reopen' should be used in place of 'to reopened'.

52. (2) If the main clause is positive, the question tag is usually negative, and if the main clause is negative, the question tag must be in the same tense. Hence, 'haven't you?' will be the correct question tag here because the main sentence is positive.

53. (3) The sentence is describing a habit of few women, so the sentence must be in present indefinite tense and 'too busy' should be replaced by 'very busy'. Very busy means exactly 'very busy'. There is no simpler way to describe it. Too busy usually means you're overloaded with work and cannot possibly finish it all.

Therefore, 'they are very busy' is the correct phrase to be used in place of 'they were too busy'.

54. (3) Replace 'have worsen' by 'has worsened' because the subject of the verb is singular 'cyclone' and auxiliary verb 'has' is followed by the past participle of verb (V3)

55. (2) used to

Modal Verb-used to when we refer to things in the past which are no longer true. It can refer to repeated actions or to a state or situation.

• In former times, people used to fight with swords.

(Past T.) (Pr. T.)

Sub. + V. V. + Sub.

Rule of Inversion

In. Sp.	D.Sp.
She wished	you wish
(Past T.)	(Pr. T.)

Here, 'if' has been used as the connector in place of that in the given indirect form where the sentence is in past tense. So, it is the indirect speech of interrogative sentence. When it is converted into the direct form, the past tense will be converted into present tense. Hence, Father said to her, "Is there anything else you wish for?" is the correct direct form.

95. (4) The man said, "I was walking down the road with my guide dog."

106. (4) The reporting verb is in past tense and the reported speech is an imperative (negative) sentence because 'to' has been used as the connector. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.

(4) The reporting verb is in past tense and the reported speech is an imperative (negative) sentence because 'to' has been used as the connector. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.

(4) The reporting verb is in past tense and the reported speech is an imperative (negative) sentence because 'to' has been used as the connector. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.

(4) The reporting verb is in past tense and the reported speech is an imperative (negative) sentence because 'to' has been used as the connector. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.

(4) The reporting verb is in past tense and the reported speech is an imperative (negative) sentence because 'to' has been used as the connector. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.

(1) In the given indirect speech, the reporting verb is in past tense. So, in the direct form, 'would' will be replaced by 'will' and the second clause is an interrogative sentence of present indefinite tense. Hence, option (1) is the correct direct form.

(1) The reported speech in the given indirect form is in past perfect tense. So, it should be either present perfect or past indefinite tense. Here, 'if' has been used as the connector. It means it is an interrogative sentence. Hence, interrogative of past indefinite tense is correct. Option (1) is appropriate choice.

(3) The reporting verb is in past tense. So, 'would' will be converted into 'will' and pronoun 'he' into 'I'. Thus, option (3) is the correct direct form.

(2) The reported speech is an imperative sentence expressing request. Thus, preposition 'to' will be used as the connector and 'requested' as the reporting verb. Hence, option (2) is the correct indirect form.

(4) The indirect speech is an exclamatory sentence expressing surprise. Thus, 'what' will be used in direct form. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form of the given sentence.

(2) The indirect speech is an interrogative sentence of modal verb 'can' because 'can' converts into 'could' if the reporting verb is in past. Reporting verb 'asked' changes into 'said to' in direct form. Hence, option (2) is the correct direct form.

(2) It is an indirect form of an imperative sentence expressing an order. Thus, in the direct form 'said to' will be used as reporting verb and the reported speech will start with base form of verb but 'then' changes into 'now'. Hence, option (1) is the correct direct form.

116. (4) The indirect speech is an interrogative sentence of modal verb 'can' because 'can' converts into 'could' if the reporting verb is in past. Reporting verb 'asked' changes into 'said to' in direct form. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.

(2) The reported speech of the indirect form is in past perfect tense. Thus, it must be either in present perfect or past perfect tense but the verb 'laud' is used to express happiness. Hence, option (2) is the correct direct form of the given sentence.

(3) Here, the past perfect tense or reported speech in indirect form will be converted into past indefinite tense in direct form and pronouns 'she' and 'my' will be converted into 'I' and 'your' respectively.

(2) The indirect form is an expression of exclamatory sentence in past perfect tense. Hence, option (2) is the correct direct form.

(3) The past indefinite tense of reported speech converts into past perfect tense when the reporting verb is in past and pronoun 'he' changes into 'I' according to the speaker. Adverb 'that day' changes into 'today'. Hence, option (3) is the correct direct form.

(1) When the reporting verb is in past tense, the present indefinite tense changes into past indefinite tense and 'can' into 'could'. Hence, option (1) is the correct direct form of the given sentence.

162. (3) It is an indirect form of an imperative sentence.
So, in its direct form, 'said to' will be used as the reporting verb and 'keep quiet' will be the reported speech. Hence, option (3) is the correct direct form.
163. (2) The reporting verb is in past tense. So, present indefinite tense of reported speech will be converted into past indefinite and 'these' into 'those'. Hence, option (2) is the correct indirect form.
164. (1) The reporting verb is in past. So, 'will' changes into 'would'. Hence, option (1) is the correct indirect form.
165. (4) The indirect form is an imperative sentence expressing request. So, in direct form, the reported speech must start with 'please'. 'The following week' must be converted into 'the next week'. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.
166. (2) The indirect form is expressing a deep sorrow or guilt. So, 'Alas' is the appropriate interjection while 'how' used in an exclamatory sentence expresses the degree of something. So, option (2) is the correct direct form.
167. (1) The reported speech is in past perfect tense in indirect form. So, it may either be past indefinite or past perfect tense. Here, time of the past action is given. Hence, past indefinite is the correct tense. Hence, option (1) is the correct direct form.
168. (2) The reported speech is an interrogative sentence of past indefinite tense that has been converted into past perfect tense. Pronouns 'she' and 'him' must be converted into 'you' and 'me' respectively in direct form. So, option (2) will be the correct direct form.

169. (4) It is an indirect form of an imperative sentence expressing order. Thus, the direct form will be - Father said to me, "You must not disturb everyone with such loud music." Here, modal verb 'must' is used to show the obligation of doing something.
170. (4) The given sentence is a negative imperative sentence of indirect form. Hence, in the direct form, 'Do not' will be used to start the reported speech and 'your' will be used in place of 'their' because 'you' is the default subject. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.
171. (3) The past tense of reported speech has to be in its present equivalent and 'will' should be used in place of 'would' when the indirect form is converted into direct form. Here, pronouns 'they' and 'she' will be mentioned as 'you' and 'I' respectively. Hence, option (3) is the correct direct form.
172. (3) Pronoun 'she' will be converted into 'I' (according to the speaker) and past tense will be into present tense in direct form. Hence, option (3) is the correct direct form.
173. (3) The reporting verb is in past tense and in indirect form it is an assertive sentence of past indefinite tense. Thus, it must be an indirect form of an interrogative sentence of present indefinite tense because the connector is 'if'. Hence, option (3) is the correct direct form.
174. (4) The reporting verb is in past tense and the reporting speech is an imperative (negative) sentence because 'to' has been used as the connector. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.
175. (4) The reporting verb is in past tense and the reporting speech is an imperative (negative) sentence expressing request because 'to' has been used as the connector. Here, 'please' will be used in direct form and in the second clause 'is' will be used in place of 'was'. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.
176. (3) The reporting verb is in past tense and 'how much' has been used as the connector. It shows that reported speech is an interrogative sentence. So, in the direct form, the reported speech will be an interrogative sentence of past indefinite tense. So, option (3) is the correct direct form.
177. (1) The reported speech in the given indirect form is in past perfect tense. So, it should be either present perfect or past indefinite tense. Here, 'if' has been used as the connector. It means it is an interrogative sentence. Hence, interrogative of past indefinite tense is correct. Option (1) is appropriate choice.
178. (2) The given sentence is an indirect form of an imperative sentence because preposition 'to' has been used as the connector.
Thus, there will be some changes to convert it into direct speech.
- | | |
|--------------------|---------|
| Ind. Sp. | D. Sp. |
| told $\Rightarrow$ | said to |
| to $\Rightarrow$ | " |
- Use V¹ to start the reported speech not move $\Rightarrow$ don't move

The policeman said to the boys, Go home and don't move at night during the curfew period. (D. Sp.)

179. (2) Both the reporting verb and the reported speech are in past tense. There will be some changes in the reported speech in direct speech.

Ind. Sp.	D. Sp.
told	= said
that	= " "
was worried	= is worried
would	= will

Hema said to her friends, "Ruse is worried whether she will break her team's scoring record soon".

180. (1) Both the reporting verb and the reported speech are in past tense. There will be some changes in the reported speech in direct speech.

Ind. Sp.	D. Sp.
that	= " "
they	= we needed	= need
that	= this their	= our

Bhanu said, "We need to work this out from our angle".

181. (1) The reporting verb is in past tense and the reported speech is in past continuous tense. Thus, there will be some changes in the reported speech of indirect speech when it will be converted into direct speech.

Ind. Sp.	D. Sp.
that	= " "
she	= I
past cont.	= present cont.
was going	= am going
then	= now

She said, "I am going to the theatre now". (D. Sp.)

182. (4) In the given sentence, the reporting verb 'advised' indicates that the reported speech is an imperative sentence (first sentence). The second sentence is in past tense. Thus, in its direct form, the reported speech will be changed into the imperative sentence or 'you should' will be used in the first sentence. In the second sentence, present tense will be used equivalent of its past tense. Other changes will be as follow:

Ind. Sp.	D. Sp.
advised	= said
to	= " "
she	= I
did not	= don't
matched	= matches

183. (1) In the given sentence, preposition 'to' has been used as the connector which indicates that it is an imperative sentence. Thus, the given indirect speech will be changed into direct speech as follows:

Ind. Sp.	D. Sp.
asked	= said to
to	= " "
her	= me

- An imperative sentence starts with V¹ (base form of verb).
My mother said to me, "Bring a glass of water for me". (D. Sp.)

184. (3) If the reporting verb of indirect speech is in past tense and the reported speech is in past perfect tense, changed into direct speech as follows:

Ind. Sp.	D. Sp.
that	= " "
She	= I
Past perfect	= Past Ind.
had taken	= took
my	= her

Megha said, "I took the shortcut to my college". (D. Sp.)

185. (1) The reporting verb is in past tense and there are two sentences in indirect speech in which first sentence is in past tense while second one is an imperative sentence. In second sentence, please will be used as requested has been used as reporting verb. Other changes will take place as follow:

Ind. Sp.	D. Sp.
told	= said to
that	= " "
I would	= I will
them	= you
I was	= I am
requested	= please
themselves	= yourselves

I said to my parents, "I will miss you when I'm away. Please take good care of yourselves in my absence".

186. (1) In the given sentence, the reporting verb is in present tense so the tense of the reported speech will not be changed into its direct form. Only commas and inverted commas will be used in place of 'that'.

The government admits 'The number of Covid-19 cases is on the rise'.

187. (4) In the given indirect speech, the first clause is an optative sentence and second clause is an exclamatory sentence. It will be changed into direct speech as follows:

Ind. Sp.	D. Sp.
thanked	= thank you
told	= said to

It was very kind of you ⇒ how kind of how

- 'how' will be used to express strong emotion
that = " "

"Thank you very much", I said to the stranger "How kind of you to have helped me in my need".

188. (4) The given sentence is in indirect speech and the use of exclamatory indicate that it is an exclamatory sentence. Therefore, the reported speech of direct speech will start with 'How' and an exclamatory mark will be used at end of the sentence.

said

Ind. Sp.
exclaimed ⇒
that ⇒ how much noise

too much noise ⇒ how much noise
The woman said, "How much noise are the kids making?" (D. Sp.)

189. (3) The reporting verb is in past tense. So, 'would' will be converted into 'will' and pronoun 'he' into 'I'. Thus, option (3) is the correct direct form.

190. (2) The reported speech is an imperative sentence expressing request. Thus, preposition 'to' will be used as the connector and 'requested' as the reporting verb. Hence, option (2) is the correct indirect form.

191. (4) The given indirect speech is an interrogative sentence of present tense because the Wh word 'how' has been used as the connector and the verb 'was' should be converted into 'is' in direct form. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.

192. (2) The indirect speech is an interrogative sentence of modal verb 'can' because 'can' converts into 'could' if the reporting verb is in past. Reporting verb 'asked' changes into 'said to' in direct form. Hence, option (2) is the correct direct form.

193. (2) It is an indirect form of an imperative sentence expressing an order. Thus, in the direct form 'said to' will be used as reporting verb and the reported speech will start with base form of verb but 'then' changes into 'now'. Hence, option (1) is the correct direct form.

194. (1) The reporting verb is in past tense. Thus, the past tense of the reported speech of indirect form will be converted into its present equivalent and pronoun 'those' into 'these'. Hence, option (1) is the correct direct form.

195. (4) The indirect speech is an interrogative sentence of modal verb 'can' because 'can' converts into 'could' if the reporting verb is in past. Reporting verb 'asked' changes into 'said to' in direct form. Hence, option (4) is the correct direct form.

196. (2) The reported speech of the indirect form is in past perfect tense. Thus, it must be either in present perfect or past perfect tense but the verb 'laud' is used to express the happiness. Hence, option (2) is the correct direct form of the given sentence.

197. (3) Here, the past perfect tense or reported speech in indirect form will be converted into past indefinite tense in direct form and pronouns 'she' and 'my' will be converted into 'I' and 'your' respectively.

198. (2) The indirect form is an expression of exclamatory sentence in past perfect tense. Hence, option (2) is the correct direct form.

199. (3) The past indefinite tense of reported speech converts into past perfect tense when the reporting verb is in past and pronoun 'he' changes into 'I' according to the speaker. Adverb 'that day' changes into 'today'. Hence, option (3) is the correct direct form.

200. (1) When the reporting verb is in past tense, the present indefinite tense changes into past indefinite tense and 'can' into 'could'. Hence, option (1) is the correct direct form of the given sentence.
